Subject: Provision for making entries beyond 100 days in MGNREGA soft.

Sir/Madam,

With a view to accommodate the request of some states for providing employment for more than 100 days in a year, some changes were effected in the MIS in the recent past. As a result of these changes, the current status in respect of the following two facilities is as under:

- a) Generation of e-muster roll: For states using e-muster, NREGASoft restricts recording, in e-muster, the name of a family that has completed 100 days. However, if any state makes a request in writing that they need the facility to provide employment for more than 100 days; the same is provided in generation of e muster, for that state, subject to a clear understanding that the expenditure on account of employment beyond 100 days would be met by the respective State Government.
- b) Data entry post work having been done: It was decided that there shall be no restriction on posting an entry in NREGA soft on the basis of labour attendance. There are two reasons for this: (1) Wages cannot be denied to someone who has worked only for the reason that his family has completed 100 days and (2) If this data is not entered in the MIS, it is difficult to calculate the amounts due from the State Government on account of having provided employment for more than 100 days to a family as the Central Government's liability is restricted to 100 days.

2. Since these changes were made in the MIS, it has been noticed that in the case of a few states, a large number of entries are reflecting employment provided for more than 100 days. It is apprehended by some states that many of these are not correct entries. In order to prevent incorrect and fraudulent entries it has been decided to re-impose the restriction that existed earlier. This implies that the system will now not register entries for more than 100 days except when the excess days are on account of attendance within the current muster. For states that have agreed to bear the expenditure on account of employment over and above 100 days, this facility will continue.

pe. discuss.

3. All states are requested to note the above changes and put in place a system so that employment is not offered to any family that has completed 100 days in a year except when it is a conscious decision of the State Govt.

Sir,

As per provision contained in paragraph 5 of Schedule-II of MGNREGA 2005, a maximum of 100 days works may be provided per household in a financial year. It is seen that in many districts there are cases where families have been provided more than 100 days' work in a financial year in violation of the above provisions of the Act. As per the guidelines, Government of India is liable for providing funds for unskilled employment up to 100 days per family in a financial year. Liability for employment in excess of 100 days has accordingly to be borne by the State Government. It is unfortunate that despite several instructions more than 100 days work per year are still being given to some families in some Gram Panchayats in violation of the provision of NREGA. This has already been brought to our notice by Govt. of India also. It is imperative that this aberration in programme implimentation has to be stopped immediately.

I would request you to issue instructions to all the GPs/PIAs so that the ceiling of 100 days' work in a financial year per household is strictly adhered to. In case of recurrence of violation of the same, the State Govt may be compelled to make the erring GP/PIA liable to bear the cost of wages associated with the works in excess of 100 days per family per financial year.

Yours sincerely,

M N Roy 29/3/10
